BOOK RECOMMENDATION

Be Thou My Vision by Jonathan Gibson

Every Christian knows the importance of a daily quiet time with the Lord. But anyone who's been a believer long enough has likely experienced seasons that feel more mundane or routine, leading to aimlessly skimming a couple of Bible verses or praying the same prayer over and over.

In Be Thou My Vision, Jonathan Gibson has created a 31-day liturgical guide designed to provide structure to the daily worship of individuals and families. Each daily reading includes a call to worship, adoration, confession, assurance, creed and catechism, the Gloria Patri, a prayer of illumination, Bible reading, intercessory prayer, and the Lord's Prayer. Designed to be read in 15-20 minutes a day, this beautifully produced liturgy will give readers focus and purpose to their daily quiet time while teaching them historical prayers, creeds, and catechisms that point them to Christ.

ASK FIRST PRAYER & WORSHIP EVENT

This month we will be hosting:
Ask First: Prayer & Worship Event
Saturday, January 7th, 8-9:30a.m.

Please join us as we seek the Lord together in the New Year.

Let's spend some time worshipping the Lord through song and asking Him to be with us this next year. If prayer is new to you or you are intimidated by praying out loud, come anyway. There will be leaders to guide our time of prayer. We will focus on praying for our body of believers, our staff, our community, the new pastor God has for us, and his family. Light refreshments will be served.

"Until now you have asked nothing in my name. Ask, and you will receive, that your joy may be full."

John 16:24

"Let the Lord, the God of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the congregation who shall go out before them and come in before them, who shall lead them out and bring them in, that the congregation of the Lord may not be as sheep that have no shepherd." Numbers 27:16-17

ELDER MENTORING

The elders continue working through a study entitled Biblical Eldership by Alexander Strauch. This study deeply looks at what scripture says about church leadership, specifically elders. We chose to do this study as part of the mentoring process for our two elder candidates, Randy Kostroski and Dave Mobley, but also to ensure that all of us have a good understanding of Biblical eldership based on the scriptures. We must always set our personal opinions aside and align with God's word. (Proverbs 3:5-6: 5Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not lean on your own understanding. 6In all your ways acknowledge him, and he will make straight your paths.) Church government has taken many forms in our culture and the world for various reasons, but what does the Bible say about it. What should church government look like at Faith Community Church based on God's word? We will answer these questions through prayer and the study of God's word.

FURTHER STUDY

We are also studying the bible through a devotional at our elder meetings. We are currently in the book of Ephesians. In addition, we recently finished a devotional of the book Zechariah.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Finally, as we head into the new year, I am very hopeful for the things God has in store for us. Not that I think everything will be what we have envisioned it to be or that our plans will work out perfectly, but God's plans will work out perfectly. The sovereign God of the universe is in control of everything, and He will use us to glorify His name here in New Richmond, Wisconsin, and around the world.

Jeremiah 29:11

For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future.

Romans 11:36

For from him and through him and to him are all things. To him be glory forever. Amen.

WORSHIP – SOUND DOCTRINE & PROPER SETTING

NOAH BURNETT

If you are active in the worship music realm of social media, you will have probably heard about a page called "worship fails". This brilliant idea is a video collection of wrong notes, voice cracks, and failing equipment all during live worship sets. These people are highlighting the "realness" of serving on a worship team, and the fact that most of the time someone is going to slip up.

This is a lighthearted thing, a comedic break. But the term "worship fail" really lends itself to talking about some major problems in modern Christianity, especially if we worded it as a question like "Where are we, as Christians, failing in our worship?" And that's what I want to look at with, for you a bit. Not how our musicians need to do better on any given Sunday, but about what we all actually think "worship" means, and if we actually do this in our corporate gatherings.

Most people, when asked "what is worship?," would respond along the lines of "music" or "singing to God," which is not incorrect necessarily. But imagine you ask someone "what is food?," and they say "Pizza!" Would you not look at them a little funny? Yes, pizza is food (as music is worship), but to call worship "music" would be just as odd as limiting food to just pizza. Instead, the correct answer would be "food is all sorts of different things that we eat in order to have energy and be healthy (probably...)." In the same way, worship is not just music, but it is the mechanism by which we attribute worth to God, whether in working, or eating, or singing. It is the underlying motivation in all that a Christian does.

So we know that it's not just music, but let's talk about what the goal of musical worship is, specifically in the gathering of believers on any given Sunday.

...WORSHIP IS NOT JUST MUSIC,
BUT IS THE MEGHANISM BY WHICH WE ATTRIBUTE WORTH TO GOD. WHETHER IN WORKING. OR EATING. OR SINGING. IT IS THE UNDERLYING MOTIVATION IN ALL THAT A CHRISTIAN DOES.

If you were to look at the lyrics to some of the songs people are singing, you may think that the goal of musical worship would be to make ourselves feel better about... ourselves? A lot of these "top of the billboard" songs that mainstream churches are singing don't really tell us much about who God is; there may be a vague reference to His "goodness" or His "power", but you will often notice that those descriptors are preceded or followed, not by an explanation of how or why God is those things, but about how those things directly benefit us. Here's kind of what I mean:

*"Your goodness is running after,
running after me ME"*

"The battle belongs to you lord, I'M gonna see a victory!"

"There's no mountain you won't climb up... coming after ME"

"I'M gonna sing, in the middle of the storm, louder and louder you're gonna hear MY praises roar"

You get the point. These songs are more about what God can do for me, or what I can do for me, than they are about God. Now I'm NOT saying that there is never a time for these songs, or that these songs are inherently wrong. I think that if you are a discerning Christian you can sing these songs in times of personal worship (car, shower, on a run, etc.) but they should not be considered staples in our corporate worship.

On any given Sunday morning, we have no idea what different types of believers we have in the gathering. It's probably safe to say that there are new, or immature believers, or that there are people who don't fully understand what the gospel is (unbelievers). To the people in those categories, the lyrics above can be extremely misleading because those people aren't in a place to spiritually discern what the meaning actually is.

To the mature believer, "There's no mountain you won't climb up... coming after me" means that even the insurmountable debt of sin that God held against us, even that mountain of sin that I am currently struggling with, Jesus overcame, and did so in pursuit of me. This is a fine understanding, yet still may be too personal and self-focused for a Sunday gathering.

To the immature believer "There's no mountain you won't climb up... coming after me" could mean that Jesus loves me so much that He is going to cure my mom's cancer, or that the "mountain" of financial debt I have, He's gonna get rid of it for me. The truth is, God can most definitely do these things, but imagine if you were the brand new believer who thought they just heard that Jesus is going to fix their biggest problem... and then He doesn't (not the way they wanted Him to anyway).

You see, these songs aren't heretical, or sinful in and of themselves, but they are not painting a clear picture of who God is for people who don't already know Him. The more our songs point to us rather than God, the more likely we are to be able to impose our own, misguided, meaning onto them.

THE MORE OUR SONGS POINT TO US RATHER THAN GOD. THE MORE LIKELY WE ARE TO BE ABLE TO IMPOSE OUR OWN, MISGUIDED, MEANING ONTO THEM.

If you are a believer, I would implore you to take a closer look at what you are listening to, and to make sure that you aren't forming your theology (your understanding of God) around songs that don't have good theology. And the only solution to this is to test everything against scripture. If a song you are singing leads you to believe something about God that scripture doesn't support, stop listening to that song. If you are not in tune with your Bible, even singing songs with sound theology will be tricky.

Bottom line, when we gather together to worship in song we are not doing so primarily to be emotionally aroused by our favorite tune, rather we are offering up a sacrifice to God. When we sing the truth of the gospel, we are encouraging one another, and are attributing to God the praise that He is due. The gathering is not about us, or what we "get out of it"... It is about the bride of Christ magnifying their Savior. So, let's make sure we are doing that with songs that build us up in truth and sound doctrine.

Here are some songs that I will be introducing this year, and that I think will serve us well in this way:

- Yes And Amen (Ephesians 1) - Shane and Shane
- Psalm 42 (I Will Praise Him Again) - City Alight
- Almost Home - Matt Papa & Matt Boswell
- Ancient Of Days - CityAlight
- Who Is Like The Lord (Ps 113) - Sovereign Grace
- Praise To The Lord - Shane & Shane
